How to Make a Fabric Label Using an Inkjet Printer

1. Make sure you have an inkjet printer, and not a laser printer. This only works for inkjet printers.
2. Cut a piece of white quilting fabric bigger than 8.5 x 11 (9 x 11.5 will do)
3. Iron this fabric with starch, on both sides about 10 times (five times on each side).
4. You are finished ironing when you hold the fabric by one corner and you wave it, it acts like a sheet of paper
5. Trim the fabric to 8.5 by 11 inches
6. Put the starched, trimmed fabric in your printer
7. Using the COLOR setting on your printer, print the Piecemakers Quilt label page. (Note: you will get three labels; save the other two labels for your next Comfort Quilt or give the extra labels to a friend.
8. Centering the label text and graphic, cut out the label, leaving space to turn under a quarter inch on all sides
9. Press under the quarter inch on all sides of the label
10. Sew label on to back of quilt
